In a note from the Campania Region, less than a month after the earthquake of magnitude 4.4 at the Campi Flegrei, the eligible expenditure was defined as a contribution to assistance to the population which, following the earthquake of 20 May, was cleared of damaged buildings.

On the basis of what happened in emergency contexts and of the measures taken, in agreement with the Civil Protection Department, the Prefecture of Naples and the Municipalities concerned, support has been granted to families whose main home, has been destroyed in whole or in part, or has been cleared by the competent authorities. The contribution for autonomous accommodation is: 400 € for single-family households, 500 € for two-unit households, 700 € for three-unit households, 800 € for four-unit households, up to a maximum of € 900 per month for households of five or more.

If in the household there are people over 65 years of age, disabled or disabled people with a percentage of disability not less than 67%, an additional contribution of € 200.00 per month for each of the above mentioned subjects, even beyond the maximum limit of € 900.00 per month provided for the household. The economic benefits can be granted from the date indicated in the order to vacate the property or evacuation, and until the conditions for return to the home have been fulfilled, or other accommodation of a stable nature has been provided, but not later than six months. The contribution cannot be recognized if the municipal administration provides housing free of charge. It should also be noted that the contribution may also be granted to those who have used the hotel accommodation: in this case, with effect from the date of departure from the relevant facilities. Finally, it is recalled that it is the responsibility of the municipalities to provide for the conduct of any preliminary investigation to identify the beneficiaries, the monitoring of the permanence of the necessary requirements and the disbursement of contributions to the aforementioned families, after completion of the necessary investigations.
