"From your Safety Office -

Be at your best when your best is required. For some of us on Medical Surveillance programs this means scheduling and completing annual medical exams. The onus to get this accomplished resides with the individual. In the end, it's your health, so take ownership and the initiative to get your exams completed before the expiration date. And besides, it's a job requirement.

Be smart and be safe."

Security is a 24/7/365 job, and it is your job.

Unfortunately, security violations seem to occur more often during the Holidays.

Let's Define a Security Violation

A security violation or infraction is any breach of security regulations, requirements, procedures or guidelines, whether or not a compromise results.

No matter how minor, any security violation or infraction must be immediately reported to the security office so that the incident can be evaluated and appropriate action taken.

Simply put... it means we're not protecting national security.

Personnel with security clearances think in one of three ways...

E. Scrooge

A Snowman

Santa

So...how does Mr. Scrooge think?

E. Scrooge

Ebenezer doesn't care about security and usually is the one complaining about the rules.

Ebenezer's Security Violations

E. Scrooge

- He'll leave security containers unlocked and/or unattended during or after working hours.
- He'll leave classified material unsecured and/or unattended on desks, in cabinets or in unsecured areas during or after work hours.
- He'll fail to mark or handle classified and sensitive information correctly.
- He doesn't give a second thought about discussing classified information over nonsecure telephone lines.

Chenezer's Security Violations

CONTINUED

E. Scrooge

- He'll carry safe combinations or passwords on him or keep them in his desk drawer.
- He'll remove classified material from the work area in order to work on it at home.
- He'll give co-workers, visitors, contractors, government personnel access to classified information without verifying both the clearance level or need to know.

None of these violations seem too important to Scrooge. He feels the rules are a nuisance.

And how does a Snowman think?

A Snowman

The Snowman knows the rules, but some days he gets too busy or distracted to comply.

Snowmen are "kinda" flaky

Violations Committed by Snowmen...

A Snowman

- · He'll frequently lose or misplace his badge.
- He doesn't take the time to properly mark information...he's too busy!
- He'll throw classified into the Proprietary bins, or toss sensitive information into his trash cans.
- He'll reproduce or transmit classified material without proper authorization or on unauthorized equipment.

Violations Committed by Snowmen...

CONTINUED

A Snowman

- He is always in a rush and forgets to properly lock his safe.
- He will walk visitors through program areas without confirming need to know.
- To save time he will discuss classified or sensitive information over non-secure telephones.
- He will transmit classified or sensitive information over non-secure fax lines... by mistake.

Violations Committed by Snowmen...

CONTINUED

A Snowman

- He can forget where he is sometimes, and discuss sensitive information in lobbies, cafeterias, corridors or other public areas where discussions could be overheard.
- He loves social settings because it gives an opportunity to discuss his job, what he does, where he works.

Snowmen know the rules and try to do the "right thing." But they need to slow down and consider the consequences of their actions.

Why do some violations occur?

- 1. Some people are in just too much of a hurry to get...
- to another meeting
- ♦ home
- ❖ to the gym
- to a social function

- 2. Some people don't take the time to check their work areas before leaving.
- 3. Some people think security isn't serious (that nothing "happens" here).

Some people just don't care.

12

But Not Good of St. Nick...

He is smarter than Scrooge and the Snowman. He takes pride in his everyday security responsibilities.

Be like Santa this holiday.

Slow down...
Take time to make your security checklist and don't forget to check it twice!

Santa He has the right spirit!

National Disability Employment Awareness Month (NDEAM) recognizes the contributions by those with disabilities who make our Nation great.

Led by the U.S. Department of Labor's Office (DOL) of Disability Employment Policy, NDEAM reaffirms the Department of Defense's (DoD) commitment to recruit and advance disabled individuals throughout its workforce. The DOL has chosen the theme, "Access to Good Jobs for All."

People with disabilities are part of a diverse group that includes people with sensory, physical, and mental conditions. Disabilities cross the lines of age, ethnicity, sex, race, sexual orientation, and socioeconomic status.

Almost everyone is likely to experience some form of disability—temporary or permanent—at some point in their life.

Do you know about Olmstead v. L.C.?

Olmstead v. L.C. is considered the most important Supreme Court case for disabled members' civil rights. 2024 marks the 25th anniversary of this key decision, which expanded the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and bolstered the independent living movement.

The case was brought by Lois Curtis and Elaine Wilson after they were kept in Georgia mental institutions despite being recommended for community-based treatment.

As a result of neglect towards them, attorney Sue Jamieson filed a lawsuit on their behalf against the Georgia Department of Human Resources.

At the Supreme Court, the justices ruled in favor of the women, asserting that they had been unfairly segregated into institutions alongside others with disabilities.

The ruling specified that individuals with disabilities had the right to receive treatment in integrated settings if they choose, with their doctors' approval, and provided that the accommodations are reasonable. In the years since, the Olmstead decision has served as the basis of several other decisions that have increased the rights of disabled individuals.

Olmstead v. L.C. has allowed disabled individuals greater autonomy and freedom from discrimination. It tested the strength of the ADA and has served as the bedrock for Federal Government policies in providing opportunities for independent living and employment.

Nobody should be held back from access to job opportunities because of a disability. People with disabilities offer important, unique perspectives that can make the workplace, and our Nation at large, better. The DoD recognizes this and strives to build an inclusive workforce for total force readiness.

HUMAN FACTORS AT WORK:

GETTING TO THE REAL BOTTOM OF OCCUPATIONAL MISHAPS

LACK OF ATTENTION TO DETAIL: WHAT, NOT A WHY

CY17 data in ESAMS cites "Lack of Attention to Detail" 35%, followed by "Other" 28%, as Primary Cause Codes (PCC), for nearly 63% of all 5845 valid mishaps. Likewise, they account for 41% of secondary and 26% of tertiary cause codes.

But are those really the leading causes? Perhaps more can be gleaned from investigating WHY someone was inattentive.

Research indicates that this is indicative of circular thinking, e.g. Q: Why did the driver fail to see the pedestrian?

A: Because the driver was inattentive.

Q: How do we know the driver was inattentive?

A: Because the driver failed to see the pedestrian. 1

The better questions are, "WHY was the driver inattentive?" Was there a distraction outside the car? Was the driver daydreaming? Was the driver sneezing? Was the driver aware of the pedestrian, even subconsciously? Those questions are more revealing than stopping at the summary event.

Don't let your lack of attention to detail hamper your investigation.

Every incident is a notice that something is wrong with men, methods or material. Investigate, then act.

Unknown

A POUND OF PREVENTION

If you could prevent a mishap, would you? Fully 9% of mishaps are due to some sort of supervisory failure, whether it be untrained personnel doing a job, or a lack of communication in some part of the process. Protecting your people is part of your job. Supervise!

Statistically, there are more injuries per day and with the most lost time in June through August; remind your people to be extra vigilant and more cautious. Most fractures occur December through February. ² Look around and ensure walkways are being shoveled, ice melt spread where needed and have cleats available.

Look at and compare statistics: the trends become the leading indicators where preventive actions can mitigate the circumstances which allow injuries to occur. Yes, everyone should pay attention to the walking surface, but snow can hide lifted sidewalks, introducing trip hazards. If there are seven slip/trip/fall mishaps each winter, perhaps there should be an initiative to identify and mark the frost-raised sections of sidewalks for visual awareness.

Extra daylight allows for extended outdoor work hours, where fatigue and heat stress can occur. Summer also brings about a temporary workforce; are they being trained on hazards and expected procedures they will face for summer employment?

Temporary workers are also present at winter holiday times as well as summer breaks. OSHA has resources available for temporary workers at www.osha.gov/temp_workers/in-dex.html.

What do 3-year olds and good mishap investigators have in common?
They both ask, "Why?" a lot.

DON'T DISREGARD DESIGN DETAILS

In our homes, how often do we flip the wrong switch on a panel? Upstairs light vs. downstairs? Garbage disposal vs. light? Often there no logic to switch order or placement, or it is contrary to what we have "always" known.

How many may have had problems with these symbols?

010

Is that round thing Open (as in circuit=off) or Open (as in an eye=on)? Or is it O for On? The line seems like less of something, as in not operating or off, or like a shut eye, opposite of open. Many are relieved that the combined icon is a simple on/off button vs. an on/off switch.

It is that sort of small detail that seems like a minor point, but can cause serious consequences in operational environments.

Don't overlook design elements just because "that is the way it is."

BUST DRINKING MYTHS

Have you or your buddies ever heard the following myths?

MYTH

Beer before liquor, never been sicker; liquor before beer, in the clear.

FACT

How much alcohol you have affects how drunk, sick or hungover you get – not the type or order of the alcohol.

MYTH

Coffee or a cold shower will sober me up.

FACT

Time is the only thing that can help you sober up. Since your body can only process so much alcohol at a time, neither caffeine nor a cold shower will improve your coordination or judgement.

MYTH

A drink before bed will help me sleep better.

FACT

Drinking alcohol before bed might cause you to wake up in the middle of your sleep and make it harder to get quality sleep.

MYTH

Alcohol can ease my chronic pain.

FACT

While drinking may ease chronic pain in the moment, it's only temporary. In fact, this type of alcohol misuse could possibly increase pain in the long-term by damaging your nerves.

MYTH

Alcohol can be substituted for food.

FACT

Alcohol contains a lot of calories which is why your body feels a short burst of energy when you drink. However, it doesn't contain the nutrients your body needs and is not a substitute for food.

Visit ownyourlimits.org to make sure you know the facts about drinking.

OWN YOUR LINITS SERVE HONORABLY.

HOW MUCH ARE YOU DRINKING?

KNOW WHAT A STANDARD DRINK IS.

Each drink below is a "standard drink." Beer, wine and liquor all have different amounts of alcohol in them, which is why standard drinks come in various sizes.

5 oz of wine, 12% ALCOHOL

1.5 oz or a "shot" of 80-proof spirits or liquor, 40% ALCOHOL

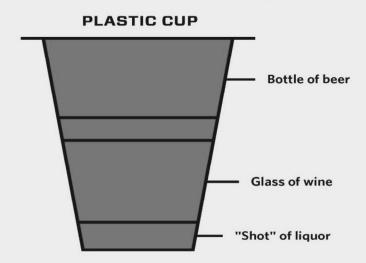

12 oz of beer, 5% ALCOHOL

8 oz of malt liquor, 7% ALCOHOL

TIPS TO DRINK RESPONSIBLY

- A standard 16 oz plastic drinking cup can help you measure a "standard drink." The lines on the cup show you how much to pour of beer, wine or liquor without overdoing it.
- Be aware that one drink you order at the bar or make at home could be equal to two or three "standard drinks." It depends on the type and amount of alcohol in the drink.
- Get more information on standard drink sizes with the Rethinking Drinking Drink Size Calculator.

Know how much you're drinking so that you can identify your limit and drink responsibly.
